A: This looks like a version of the Corel DLL Explorer. The default version has been obtained from the original creator via a VCD link. As noted in the comments this version doesn't support V6.2 installation. The above link might show you a way to manually obtain it, though the creator states that you have to register. Updating to v4 is very easy. Download the.Zip file Open the.Zip archive Extract to the desired folder Replace the files and folders in the "CORE" directory The new installed files are: "coredll.dll" "coredll.bak" It is still bound by the Microsoft license. The original author (as far as I know) is still active. You can try to contact him to establish if he'll release the source code or not. A: Check out the official website of Corel Dll Explorer. You have to register with a valid email address (the registration process is free). Here is the download link: Corel Dll Explorer Webpage It may help you. Q: First swing game - how to improve? I'm going to create my first swing game (space invader style) using OpenGL, and I want to make a very simple tutorial, so I can add it to my portfolio. Is there any ways to make it better looking, simpler, clearer or more entertaining? my current progress: A: Small things No need to show the mission, move the camera to the middle right after the screen starts. Same for the controls when you move the ship, it's a bit stiff now. When you show the spacecraft, show the error bars too, your missile has a huge circumference, it makes it looks like the spaceship is only able to deliver a single bomb. More flappy ships The falcon is WAY more entertaining than a mushroom. Other than that, don't get obsessed with making it look nice, make it work first, then make it pretty. North Korean leader Kim Jong Un has reportedly been studying at a
